PLAYED GREAT TENNIS PRESIDENT'S SPEECH ON TRUSTS. London Papers Taking Their Time in

Three Sets.

FINALS TOMORROW

GREAT INTEREST IN THE WHIT-MAN GAME.

One of the Dohertys Expected to Default in the Finals.

NEWPORT, R. I., August 25 .- Malcolm D. Whitman of Boston, the American champion of 1898 and 1899 and 1900, will meet one of the Doherty brothers, probably the younger one, H. L. Doherty, tomorrow in the finals of the championship tennis tournament. The Dohertys could play together but it is their practice not to do so, hence it is believed that one will default, and while it was thought early today today that R F. Doherty, having no game today, would be the one left for tomorrow's game, the fact that H. L. Doherty beat Ware this morning, without exhausting himself, rather changed the general opinion, so that this afternoon it seemed to be accepted he would battle with Whitman.

Both Whitman and the little English player won their contests today, H. L. Doherty having beat L. E. Ware with greatest ease, while Whitman had a hard struggle to dispose of R. P. Huntington.

Weather Was Perfect.

NEWPORT, R. I., August 25 .- The fine weather of last week, which enabled the national lawn tennis championship tournament to continue through five rounds with out a single match being postponed, continued today, and again the thousands of enthusiastic followers of the game flocked to the Casino for today's play.

The featured match of the day was between the younger of the English pair, H. L. Doherty, and L. E. Ware of Boston. The match between M. D. Whitman, a former champion, and R. P. Huntington of New York attracted but little attention, the chances being considered as strong in Whitman's favor.

There is a general impression that the younger Doherty will withdraw after today's match and allow his brother the opportunity of meeting Whitman in the finals man won the finals from either of the Dohertys tomorrow the tournament might end without the challenge match being played, Whitman defaulting and allowing W. A. Larned to retain his title uncontested. At any rate it is generally conceded that the most important match of the tournament will come tomorrow and there seems to be considerable confidence in Whitman's ability to cut short the career of the En#### glishmen toward another championship. The Ware-Doherty Match.

In the Ware-H. L. Doherty match the first point went to the Englishman on a fine cross-court place shot, but Ware duplicated it immediately after and obtained an advantage on a double fault by Doh-

The game went to deuce after Ware was within a point of winning, and then the Englishman took it The loss of his service seemed to put Doherty on his mettle, for he began to smash fiercely at the net and scored repeatedly until he had turned the tables and had advantage, 3 games to 2. Ware won the sixth and the score was even. The Englishman seemed to gain in speed as the game went on and fairly smothered Ware, game being particularly strong. Soon the games were 5 to 3 in his favor, but here Ware rallied and won the ninth on Doherty's service and the tenth on his own, making the games 5-all. A close line decision in favor of Doherty gave him the eleventh game, but Ware took the next, and the games were even again. Ware made another fine rally in the thirteenth, and again in the fourteenth, winning the latter and making the games 7-all. But the set went to Doherty, 9 games to 7.

Ware seemed unable to play either at the net or base line, while the Englishman's game was the strongest seen on the courts. Ware won the second game and then Doh-

fifth his speed came back, and again Ware seemed a puppet in his hands. Donerty won two games entirely on place shots at the net, darting across from one side to the other. Such tennis has not been seen in Newport in a long time. Ware never seemed to have a chance, either in the second or third set. The points in the third set were as follows: H. L. Doherty...... 2 4 6 1 4 4 4 4 29 6 L. E. Ware.... 4 2 4 4 0 0 1 1-16-2

Whitman-Huntington Match.

The match between Whitman and R. P. Huntington proved even more interesting than the Doherty-Ware contest. Before Whitman could settle down in the first set Huntington had obtained a lead which the ex-champion could not overcome. Huntington won, 10-8. The players then moved to the championship court, where Doherty and Ware had played, and there Whitman braced up and took the next three sets.

Championship singles; fifth round-H. L. Doherty beat L. E. Ware, 9-7, 6-1, 6-2. Semi-finals-M. D. Whitman beat R. P. Huntington, 8-10, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH ON TRUSTS.

Making Comment. LONDON, August 25.-The newspapers here are taking time to digest President Doherty Defeats Ware in Roosevelt's views on trusts, and there has been little comment on the subject thus far. The Evening Standard considers that his Expressions of Representative Cannon definition of the position the combination ought to occupy "is precisely what is expectable of a man of the President's temperate, logical mind," and adds that the 'suggestion of governmental supervision of capitalistic rings is admirable in theory, although it is not easy to surmise how it can be made operative."

The Pall Mall Gazette remarks: "President Roosevelt's pronouncement leaves no doubt that he intends at least to scotch some of the leviathan enterprises which are deleterious to the general community. At the same time he is too wise to ignore the fact that the tendency of commerce is in the direction of a concentration of forces, and that this force needs guidance and not blind opposition."

ALABAMA PRIMARIES TODAY. Nominations Made for State Officers and the Legislature.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., August 25.-Demo cratic primaries to make nominations of the party for the election in November are being held throughout Alabama today. In Alabama, as in every strictly democratic state in the south, the selection made at the primaries is equivalent to an election. State officers will be chosen, legislators elected, and in many parts of the commonwealth county officers will be selected.

There is more than ordinary interest attached to this primary for the reason that the coming legislature is to select a United States senator. The term of United States Senator E. W. Pettus is about to expire. He is a candidate for renomination and election. As far as is publicly known there is no opposition.

There are two candidates for the gubernatorial nomination-W. D. Jelks, at present governor of Alabama, and Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, former governor.

RANDALL ON INSPECTION TOUR. Returns From a Trip Through Columbia and Alaska.

SEATTLE, Wash., August 25.-General George Randall, commanding the district of Columbia and Alaska, has reached here on the steamer City of Seattle, accompanied by Captain W. P. Richardson, his aid. The general sailed for the north July 8, and during the past month and a half has made personal inspections of nearly all the army posts in Alaska.

In speaking of the trip Captain Richardson said: "The general made a tour of inspection to the posts in Alaska and found. them in very good shape. Some improvements are needed at several barracks, and he undoubtedly will make recommendations for them. The telegraph lines are being built as fast as possible, and it will be many months before communication in the frozen north will be as simple a matter as in this state."

COMMERCE OF CUBA.

Last Report Issued by the War Department.

The insular division of the War Department has just published the regular monthly summary of the commerce of the Island of Cuba for May, 1902, prefaced by the statement that it is the last summary of the commerce of the island that will be published by the bureau. Therefore, the chief of the division, Col. Edwards, briefly Ware won on his service, and also won sums up under short heads the state of the on Doherty's giving him the lead two commerce of Cuba, indulging in comparigames to one. Both varied their game from sons with the conditions as they existed at the beginning of the military occupation. This statement consequently differs in scope rather with political and economical conditions than with purely commercial mat-

From the summary it appears that the total value of imports into Cuba during the military occupation was $225,437,135, and the exports were $45,000,000 less than the importations, a fact attributed to the struction of property and damage to agriculture caused by the war. The United States furnished 43 per cent of the imports and took 75 per cent of the Cuban exports. Practically all the sugar went to the States. The balance of trade was decidedly in favor of Cuba, though not so great as in former years, and it is remarked that the trade of the United States has not kept pace in any of the Latin-American countries with its wonderful strides in other and Secretary Shaw Commented on by a Visiting Statesman.

TARIFF REVISION

TWO VIEWS ON THE SUBJECT CONTRASTED.

"It is more than evident that the tariff won't down, and, coincidentally, reciprocity." remarked a visiting statesman in an uptown hotel to a Star man this morning. "and it is also evident that the republican leaders want to get together and talk less about the necessity for the democrats to do all of the flocking themselves. The strength of this issue can be determined only at the fishes in the political sea command attention. "Thus, Mr. Cannon, a veteran leader, chairman of the House committee on appropriations, and a man who can largely influence legislation in that body, said a few days ago, referring to the proposed re-polls, but the recent remarks of the big duction of certain of the tariff schedules: " 'The tariff will be revised some time, but not at the next session of Congress, or by the succeeding Congress, unless there is check in the present prosperity.' "Secretary Shaw made this opposite com ment a few days ago in Vermont: "I have never opposed readjustment of the tariff. Whenever Congress reaches the conclusion that the friends of protection are strong enough to conservatively modify certain schedules, so as to meet the changed conditions and at the same time successfully resist the efforts of the opposition to revise the entire tariff law, thus paralyzing business for a season, I am in favor of Divergence of Views in High Quarters. "It will be observed that while Mr. Cannon is flat-footed against tariff revision practically at any time, for, if not by the next, or the succeeding Congress, then never by the members of his party, because he is assuming too much that the democrats will not in the meantime come in and re-vise the tariff in spite of him. Uncle Joe evidently doesn't look forward to that un-expected event, and it would prove a severe shock to his nerves if it were to come

"On the other hand, though Mr. Shaw throws so many restrictions and reservations about his assertion that it is not quite clear what he means, it is evident that he is in favor of revision along the familiar pathway of "certain lines." But he, too, it will be observed, puts the onus upon Congress, and, while that body must, of course pass the necessary legislation, it will be the leaders who will direct its action. The point is to get the leaders to whip up the horse. They have got to lay on the lash sooner or later, and the question is, when will they begin?

"I think that Mr. Cannon owes it to the party and to the people to explain what he means by saying that the tariff will not be revised 'unless there is a check to the present prosperity.' "This is truly an astounding statement for a republican member of Congress to make. Does he mean that tariff revision and adversity are synonyms? Why does he not accord with the views of the tariff revisionists in the van of progressive thought that the time for revision of the tariff is during a period when the times are good?

"If, as he says, 'it is always demoralizing to business to have Congress begin the work of revising the tariff,' be true during prosperity, what would be the result if his remarkable views obtained, and tariff revision should be commenced when 'there is a check to the present prosperity?' Would It not be worse than demoralization, ruin, in fact? If Mr. Cannon is as astute as he is said to be, he ought to know that any party which attempted to revise the tariff during a 'check' would be literally and figuratively wiped off the face of the earth.

Grant and the Brigadier General.

propriation committee be forgetful of the from one previously published, which dealt | past? Evidently he is, and to refresh his memory I will remind him of a story about Grant. Uncle Joe is very fond of telling stories, but this is a true story, and General Horace Porter, our minister to France, s the authority for it.

"During the Wilderness campaign Grant was hurriedly approached one day while he was seated under a tree at his headquarters, calmly puffing a cigar while both armies were fighting desperately, by an excited brigade commander who told Grant that the confederates were doing this on his right, and that on his left, while h's front and rear, in the mind of the brigadier general, were being completely annihldo so much that it appeared as if the army of the Potomac were already defeated and driven back to Washington.

"Grant, it is said, listened quietly to the officer's story, and, removing his cigar from his lips a moment, he replied: 'Never mind what the enemy may be going to do to me, general, but let the enemy lookout for what I propose to do to

"It seems to me that this story fits the present situation upon the tariff question. The democracy intends to make a determined and prolonged assault upon the flank of the republican party with iff revision as a battering ram in the hope of splitting its otherwise solid ranks. The republicans ought to give no heed to what the democrats may be 'going to do,' though the assault cannot be doubted to be formidable, but should go ahead and settle the agitated tariff question itself and in its own ranks, and let the democracy take care what the republican party will do to it when the republicans get through with

GOING TO THE PHILIPPINES.

But the War Department is Ignorant of Gen. Miles' Proposed Trip. According to an interview in the morning papers given in Boston yesterday, Gen. Nelson A. Miles of the army will sall for the Philippines within a few weeks. Although nothing is known in Washington as to the purpose of the visit of Gen. Miles to the Philippine archipelago, officers of the War Department see in it nothing but a tour or inspection. Gen. Miles has the right to inspect any army corps, and the gossip today is that if he chooses to exert this right for the inspection of the Philippine army, after his recent turn-down by President Roosevelt regarding his plan for settling the war there, he has a perfect right to do so.

It is unofficially stated that Gen. Miles asked and received permission from the Secretary of War to make this inspection some weeks ago, but this rumor could not be confirmed in Washington today in the absence of both the Secretary of War and

The interview which is accredited to Gen. Miles in Boston yesterday reads, after the question had been asked of the general as to what he was going to the Philippines

General Miles declined to answer other questions relative to his trip, but said: "The statement that I had been active in suggesting material and witnesses for the Senate committee on the Philippines is with out foundation. I never suggested a single witness and only read the testimony of one witness who appeared before the committee. Eighteen of the twenty-five witnesses were unknown to me.'

The Boston Athenaeum.

rom the New York Tribune.

What is in Boston analagous to "the march uptown" seems to be attended with the loss of landmarks peculiarly dear to Bostonians, and of interest to many outsiders. The sacrifice of the old Boston Museum to make way for an office building has already been told of in the Tribune. And now that the time draws near for the Boston Athenaeum, that great private library of over 200,000 volumes, founded by a group of men headedthy the father of Ralph Waldo Emerson in 1807, to move to the Back Bay, Bostonians are again mourning that the old order changeth. "For more than half a century the Athenaeum library has occupied its present site on Beacon street, close to the state house, housed in a building erected for it," said James C. Carleton of Boston, at the 5th Avenue yesterday, "and though its new home up by the public gardens will be larger, lighter, and perhaps handsomer, and a good investment, no one can help regretting that the old building, elegant for the mid-century and still grimly dignified, must come down. Its dear windows looked out on the Granary burying ground, and it is deliciously odorous with the smell of eld bindings. There are few better equipped libraries in America than the Athenacum, and in none have so many writers studied and written. From Ralph Waldo Emerson to Alice Brown, whom I saw at work there only a short time ago, New England authors and many associated with New York have made it at one time or other their workshop. Charles Sumner, Francis E. Parkman, George William Curtis, Judge Robert Grant, Margaret Deland, Thomas Wentworth Higginson and Edward Everett Hale are a few whose figures have been familiar amid its dusty shelves, and who have used up dozens of its sputtery pens. Among its treasures is the bulk of Washington's library, purchased in 1848 for the paltry sum of $4,000; and this collection certainly can never be so fittingly housed as in the old building that looks out on the burying place of so many of Washington's contemporaries."

Importance of Alaska.

From the Engineering Magazine. Since 1896 six events have occurred that wholly change conditions in Alaska for the better. (1) In that year the Klondike gold discoveries were made, and in 1897 and 1898 a great rush to and through Alaska began, resulting in a doubling of the population and in an output of geld from the Yukon region to date of $75,000,000. (2) In 1898 the Philippine Islands were acquired by the United States, giving importance to the direct route along the Alaskan coast between North America and the new pos-sessions. (3) In 1899 gold was discovered on the beach at Nome, and this carried 30,000 people to this part of Alaska and reannually, or more than twice as much as all Alaska had previously yielded. (4) The Alaskan salmon fisheries, in their infancy in 1896, have grown in 1902 to great companies, capitalized for $20,000,000 and with net earnings last year of more than $2,-000,000, and employing 10,000 men. (5) Two 000,000, and employing 10,000 men. (5) Two railroads have been constructed in Alaska, one of which, in the extreme southeast, costing $4,000,000, earned last year over $3,000,000 net, and the other, in the extreme northwest, near Nome, a little road five miles long, which earned $80,000 net. Peru and the Panama Canal. From the New York Tribune. The latest papers at hand from South America publish enthusiastic articles and communications applauding the action of the United States Congress in regard to the Panama canal. A the opening of the canal at Panama. A former president of the Argentine Republic. who was also minister of finances, and whose practical manner of looking at future events is a proverb in South America, shows in a leader of his own paper, El Pais of Buenos Ayres, that the Panama canal will greatly increase the importance of the Beruvian port of Callao, while it will dimensia considerably that of Montevideo, and cause the complete disappearance of the importance of the Chitean port of Valparaison a perspective which is cal-culated not to displease an Argentine pa-

CITIZENS ARE EXEMPT

IMMIGRATION LAWS APPLY ONLY TO ALIENS.

Commissioner Williams Issues Order Which Removes Considerable Misapprehension.

To remove the misapprehension which exists in regard to the law relating to the manifestation of first cabin aliens, Commissioner of Immigration Williams, at Ellis Island, N. Y., has issued a circular letter to the steamship companies in which he says: "In view of the approach of the season during which you will be bringing to this country cabin passengers in large numbers, the following is issued in the hope that it may facilitate and improve the execution of the laws applicable to incoming aliens and lead to a better general understanding of the same: "1. The laws generally known as 'immigration laws' relate, in fact, to all 'aliens' coming to the United States. Such aliens may consist of tourists, persons coming temporarily for business or pleasure, persons in transit to other countries, steerage immigrants and others.

American Citizens Exempt.

"2. These laws have no application whatver to a United States citizen.

"3. These laws require that you shall furnish the government certain information therein specified concerning all aliens entering the United States by your vessels. but they do not prescribe the method by which such information shall be obtained. It may be obtained by inquiry, direct or indirect, by hearsay, by observation, or by any other method that seems most appro-The 'questions' are to be answered by the steamship companies, and the law does not require that any particular question be put to any passenger.

"While you will naturally seek to procure some of this information by direct questions, yet, as to a portion of the same, this method may prove unnecessary and indeed, in some cases, the least satisfactory means of enabling you to correctly write down the facts which the government re-quires. If an alien is suffering from a dangerous contagious disease, or if he is a noted criminal, he will generally avoid admitting that such is the case. You are none the less liable to a penalty for bring-ing him here because he may have stated to you that he was in good physical condi-tion or that he was an honest man. "The law places upon you the burden of correctly ascertaining and reporting the facts in each case, irrespective of what may be told you by the alien; but where it ap pears that you have made every proper ef-fort to do this as to cabin aliens this office will not be disposed to enforce the penalty provided by law for an erroneous statement on the ship's manifest.

Alien Tourists Must Be Manuifested. "4. Alien 'tourists' must be manifested in the same manner as are other aliens. Since the government will not separately record those who come here in the cabin for residential purposes and those coming as tourists, it requires that, as to all aliens of the latter class, the word 'tourist' be inserted in column 11, for they have no 'final destination.'

"5. During the first six months of 1902 'additional head tax money' in the amount of about $2,311 was collected at this port by inspectors boarding incoming vessels at the quarantine station from (cabin and steerage) manifested as United States citizens, but who, upon inquiry, were found to be aliens. You should urge upon your representatives in foreign ports the necessity of making renewed efforts to secure correct information as to the national-ty of each of your passengers. "It will be seen that there is no law requiring that any particular questions be put to any passenger, and the immigration inspectors at New York, although the contrary is commonly believed to be the case, are not directed by law to 'catechise' cabin passengers, nor have they done so in practice.

"Certain information must be furnished by the companies as to each alien, but this information they may procure in any way they please, and must swear to the same before a United States consul on the other side. If any 'annoying questions' have ever been put to capin passengers this must have been done by pursers acting under a misapprehension as to the law.'

DEMAND FOR B. AND O. SOUTHWESTERN GROUP ALSO

WELL BOUGHT.

Buying Came in Latter Case From the Pool of Western Brokers.

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star.

NEW YORK, August 25.-Trading during the opening hour this morning reflected some realizing in the active issues and for a time the market was irregular under mixed dealings. London's early prices reflected a featureless market at that center, and traders were inclined to accept the view that Saturday's bank statement had lost its value as a further incentive.

After the first hour the selling gave way to an aggressive demand and the whole list developed strength. The pool in Southern Pacific showed a remarkable capacity for absorbing stock, and after taking all offerings advanced the price to its best level. Union Pacific was bought in round amounts during the noon hour, this stock becoming more active than at any time in weeks and leading the whole market into a sharp rally. The buying came from the western element and houses with western connections. Large amounts of convertible bonds were traded in at prices which kept pace with the rise in the stock. This movement was said to have been based upon the advance in Southern Pacific, and ascribed to the fact that the in-tially the best asset owned by Union Pacific. Whatever inspired the buying, the market for western shares was improved by the advance. St. Paul, Illinois Central and Atchison all showed a stronger tone, and there was a moderate revival of buying in Missouri Pacific. The Gould buying of Western Union was resumed upon a considerable scale, and there were rumors of an intention on the part of the same interests to advance Man-creased value of the latter added substannoon, the price gaining over 3 per cent in the process. The taking of one lot of 10,000 shares of stock by a single commission house was said to be for interests already large stockholders. As previously mentioned, the company is contemplating some extra disbursement to stockholders, probably in the shape of rights. For more than two weeks the stock has been accumulated and there was com-hattan. A sudden demand for Baltimore and Ohio developed during the early afterparatively little stock seeking a market to-Pennsylvania was bid up with Baltimore and Ohio and responded easily to the buying, but the movement was merely in sympathy with the first-named undertaking.

The coal stocks generally were strong under a fair demand, Erie issues doing a trifle better than any. Rumors of an early attempt to finance Erie, giving it the new money needed to extend and improve the property, and providing for an issue of bonds and the retirement of the second preferred stock, helped the prices of all three issues Morgan interests were said to be in sympathy with activity in certain sections of the market, and it is expected that the socalled Louisville plan will be disclosed dur-ing the week. The southern roads were only steady today, however, the western group attracting the bulk of the business. The steel stocks held well and the street expects some activity in them in the near The industrial list as a whole is thought to show more room for speculative improve-ment than other departments of the market. While net results today were by no means uniform prices in most instances reflected gains over last week. Money ruled at 4
